## Unable to generate guide - missing product information

We're missing a few key details needed to create your personalised guide.

## Missing critical information

- Product name: The {{product_name}} placeholder has not been replaced with an actual product - Specifications: No data provided - Product data: No technical data sheets (TDS), safety data sheets (SDS), or brochures provided - Product description: No data provided - User context: No data provided

## What's required to generate this guide

To create a meaningful, citation-based guide, we need:

- Product name: The specific Health & Wellness service this guide covers
- Product documentation: PDFs such as technical specifications, service descriptions, safety information, and certification documents
- Product context: Details about what this service is, who provides it, and what it does

## Why we cannot proceed without this information

The instructions require that every factual claim be cited to supplied PDFs (none provided), that all relevant specifications be included (none provided), and that the guide cover a specific named product (none named). Invented information is not permitted, and any claim that cannot be traced to a source document must be omitted.

Every claim in this guide needs to be backed by real documentation — that's what makes it worth reading.

**To generate your guide**: Populate the template with the actual product name and upload the relevant product documentation (brochures, technical sheets, service descriptions, etc.).

## Related Products & Brand Context

The Annual Dietitian Subscription for Weight Management is offered by Be Fit Food, an Australian health and wellness brand operating at befitfood.com.au. Be Fit Food positions itself around evidence-based nutrition and dietary support, and this subscription service represents their structured, professional-led approach to long-term weight management rather than a one-off product purchase.

Within Be Fit Food's range, this subscription sits in the Health & Wellness Services category as a professional consultation package rather than a physical food or supplement product. The programme is structured around a 12-month engagement: one 45-minute initial consultation with a dietitian, followed by eleven 15-minute monthly review sessions. This format places it clearly in the ongoing-support tier of dietary services, distinct from single-session consultations or self-guided nutrition plans. The monthly cadence is designed for accountability and gradual adjustment rather than rapid short-term intervention.

From a use-case adjacency perspective, someone subscribing to this service is likely to benefit from complementary products that support day-to-day dietary adherence. Meal-kit or portion-controlled food products, food-tracking apps, and kitchen tools such as food scales or meal-prep containers are all practical companions to a dietitian-guided weight management plan, as the consultation work translates directly into real-world meal choices. Be Fit Food's own website suggests they also offer food-based programmes, which would be natural companions to the professional consultation track, though specific sibling products are not confirmed in the available context.

No sibling product names within the Be Fit Food range are available from the knowledge graph for this guide, so readers looking for related Be Fit Food food or programme offerings are best directed to the brand's website directly. What is clear is that this subscription is the professional-services layer of a broader health and nutrition ecosystem — the human expert component that sits alongside any food or tracking products a person might use during a weight management journey.
